

WORDS HAVE WEATHER

KEEP THE BOUNDARY. CHANGE THE WEATHER.

LEARNING JOURNEY - EPISODE 090

Going deeper: Trust grows through evidence

A gentle practice for the next pressured moment.

Episode 090

6 pages

You do not need a perfect sentence. This workbook helps you notice the pressure, keep what matters and prepare one phrase you can actually use.

Production resource - adapt to the child, setting, culture, access needs and safety context.

01 - START WITH THE ADULT WEATHER

What was I carrying into the moment?

Pressure can explain why words came out sharply. It does not make the child responsible for the adult's feelings.

THE MOMENT

What happened? Keep it short and observable.

MY PRESSURE

What else was I carrying - time, noise, worry, mess, tiredness or something different?

WHAT I SAID

Write the words without editing them. This is information, not a verdict on you.

A useful pause

The moment was hard. I can still choose what I say next.

02 - MOVE FROM PRESSURE TO USEFUL INFORMATION

Name the moment without defining the child.

Specific words help everyone understand what happened, what must remain and where to begin.

ORIGINAL MOMENT

"I can never trust you."

USEFUL NEXT SENTENCE

"Trust requires changed actions over time. Tell me what is getting in the way, then we can agree on one observable action that can rebuild trust."

WHAT A CAMERA COULD RECORD

Write only what could be seen or heard.

WHAT STILL MATTERS

Name the responsibility, safety need, limit, learning goal or practical next step.

Episode principle

Treat trust as a process supported by evidence, not a permanent identity verdict.

03 - NOTICE POSSIBLE WEATHER

What might the words have communicated?

You cannot read a child's mind. Use possibilities, then stay open to what the child shows or tells you.

One possible feeling

Another possibility

Weather can change

Illustrations show possible momentary emotions, not fixed traits or diagnoses.

MY GENTLE GUESS

The child may, might or could have heard: Older children may hear pressure as mistrust, public judgement or loss of agency. Make the reason, choice and responsibility visible.

WHAT I CAN CHECK

What could I notice or ask without demanding an answer?

04 - KEEP WHAT MATTERS

Warm and firm can sit together.

The aim is not instant happiness or cooperation. The aim is clear information, dignity and a usable next action.

Episode example

"Trust requires changed actions over time. Tell me what is getting in the way, then we can agree on one observable action that can rebuild trust."

PAUSE

What does the moment require?

DESCRIBE

What specific information can I give?

KEEP

What boundary, responsibility or safety need remains?

NEXT

What is one action or real question to begin?

MY WHOLE NEXT SENTENCE

Put the useful parts together in words that sound like you.

05 - REPAIR AND REPEAT

A hard moment can still have a next chapter.

Repair owns the adult's delivery, restates what matters and makes room to try again. It does not ask the child to comfort the adult.

A simple repair

"I said that sharply. I want to try again. Trust requires changed actions over time. Tell me what is getting in the way, then we can agree on one observable action that can rebuild trust."

MY REPAIR WORDS

Own the delivery, keep what matters and offer the next step.

When more support is needed

Use local safeguarding and incident procedures. Persistent distress, online harm or safety concerns need context-specific support.
